Hi All,

I am horrified to report that this is my sister's dog Squish whom we just picked up on Sunday from a VA Papillion Rescue transport. My sister, Papillion Rescue, and the breeder who placed this retired, AKC finished champion are all absolutely devastated. Two days after she was adopted, Squish was scooped up from my sister's fenced backyard where she was let out with two other Paps for an unsupervised potty break.

There are days when I think I'm obsessive about my pups -- until something like this happens. Hopefully this will never happen to one of yours, but an ounce of prevention might have saved my sister tremendous heartache. Therefore, our weekly Dog Owner Education topic #7 is a reminder that things like this can happen to any breed, anytime, and anywhere. I've had more than a few adoption applicants who have said that a past Dane was stolen, so don't think our big dogs are immune.

PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE do not let your dogs outside unsupervised, even for a moment. All it takes is the blink of an eye to loose a precious furkid!

Thanks for educating yourselves to benefit all dog owners.
